Equal Access
Clinic Network
A Family of Patient-Centered Free Clinics

Equal Access is a network of student-run free healthcare clinics established by the University of Florida College of Medicine in Gainesville, Florida. Pre-medical and health professional student volunteers in collaboration with the University of Florida faculty and staff provide care for the underserved in the community. Clinics are held most Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays.

See yourself in The Big Picture

New employee orientation video created by our communications teams

We're happy to introduce a staff welcome video, which will be shown during orientation and training. The video is designed to welcome new faculty, staff, residents and volunteers to the organization and explain the scope of how we are moving medicine forward.

The video outlines UF Health's vision and strategic priorities, and highlights our patient care, education, research and community health missions. It spotlights the people at the heart of UF Health and features our hospitals, outpatient programs, health science colleges and research institutes.
Three professional actors serve as hosts, and David S. Guzick, M.D., Ph.D., UF senior vice president for health affairs and UF Health president, shares a welcome message.

The video was produced in-house: The scriptwriting, images, animation and editing were done by UF Health Communications teams. We especially thank Creative Services for making the script come to life!

In addition to new hires, existing faculty and staff are encouraged to view the video and learn more about UF Health.
You can view the video on the Bridge, under "Education," then "Faculty/Staff Development."
We hope the messages resonate with you and make you feel proud to be a part of the UF Health family.

Introducing new web and mobile message system

Spok will be used to securely share PHI/clinical information

We're introducing new technology to help clinical care staff share protected health information with safe, secure and simple tools. The two new messaging tools are Spok Web and Spok Mobile, a smartphone mobile app. The system is intended to replace pagers and any other messaging tools.

Spok Web is an easily accessible mass communication and messaging tool that allows UF Health faculty and staff to search for and securely message clinicians in our health care system. It will be used by faculty and staff who participate in on-call groups, receive or activate emergency alerts or oversee any group messaging.

CHRIS is currently used for this functionality - Spok will replace these portions of CHRIS on Dec. 8.

Spok Mobile will be used by UF Health Shands, UF Health Physicians and UF College of Medicine credentialed care providers. Installed on your personal smartphone, Spok Mobile is a HIPPA-compliant system that allows you to securely relay patient health information.

Secure your mobile device by setting a device-level PIN code to ensure your messages are for your eyes only.

We're asking UF Health Shands, UF Health Physicians and UF College of Medicine credentialed care providers to download Spok Mobile on their smartphones. Open enrollment is Nov. 16-20 (see tabling information and dates below).

Please visit help.spok.ufhealth.org to learn how to install Spok Mobile and how to use Spok Web.

If you need help before Dec. 8, please email spok@shands.ufl.edu. After the go-live date, you can call UF Health IT at 352-265-0526 for support.

Educational Scholarship Program

The Educational Scholarship Program (ESP) is made up of a group of UF Health Science Center faculty members interested in supporting education research and scholarship in health sciences education. Monthly brown bag lunch sessions focus on a variety of topics designed to help faculty members take a more scholarly approach to their teaching and education innovation.

Please join us from 11:45 am to 12:45 pm in Communicore room C2-33 and feel free to bring your lunch. Soft drinks will be available, courtesy of the Office of Interprofessional Education. Videoconferencing will be available for faculty at HSC Jacksonville in room 4003.

Visit the Educational Scholarship Program webpage for meeting dates and details.
We look forward to seeing you!

FLU VACCINE

It's not too late to get your flu vaccination!

With the Oct. 30 flu vaccination deadline behind us, faculty, staff, students and volunteers without a green flu vaccination sticker on their badge are required to wear a surgical/procedural mask in UF Health Shands, UF Health Physicians and other patient care areas during flu season, through March 31.

It's not too late to get your vaccination.

The following workers can visit UF Health Shands Occupational Health Services for a free flu shot:

* UF Health Shands employees and volunteers

* UF Health Physicians employees

* UF College of Medicine faculty physicians, residents and fellows

* Credentialed ARNPs

* Credentialed physician assistants

* Credentialed medical staff

Other UF faculty and staff can contact the UF Student Health Care Center regarding flu vaccinations.

Once you receive your flu vaccination, you will be required to wear a mask in patient care areas for two more weeks until the vaccine provides full immunity.

If you received your vaccination elsewhere, submit proof of vaccination to OHS to get a sticker for your badge.

OHS is open from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and is located at UF Health Shands Hospital (north campus), Room 1004.

For more information, visit Flu Central at bridge.UFHealth.org/flu.

CTSI Opportunities

Pilot Project Awards

The UF Clinical and Translational Science Institute is pleased to invite applications for CTSI Pilot Project Awards that support patient-oriented clinical research utilizing CTSI services. Applications will be accepted on a rolling basis through March 31, 2016.

UF faculty members and UF trainees (residents, postdocs, fellows) can apply. All applicants must demonstrate that proposed pilot projects will provide critical preliminary data to support extramural applications.

AWARD DETAILS AND TIMELINES

This RFA invites pilot project proposals for patient-oriented clinical research, which is defined as research in which an investigator or colleague directly interacts with human subjects. The CTSI will make a total of up to $150,000 available through this RFA.

- Award Amounts: Award amounts vary but typically do not exceed $25,000.
- Eligible Venues: Proposed research can be conducted in any appropriate UF Health facility, with preference given to use of the UF Clinical Research Center.

- Award Funding Period: Up to 18 months from notice of award.

RFA, APPLICATION FORM AND CONTACT FOR QUESTIONS

KL2 Program for Junior Faculty

The UF Clinical and Translational Science Institute (CTSI) is now accepting applications for its KL2 Program for Junior Faculty, which provides two years of financial support and research training to develop the skills necessary to build a well-funded, collaborative career in clinical/ translational research.

Qualified faculty at the rank of assistant professor with an M.D., Ph.D. or equivalent degree in the health sciences are encouraged to apply. The CTSI welcomes applicants from any of the UF Health Science Center's six colleges.

An informational session describing the program and application process will be held Monday, November 16, 2015 at 12:00 noon in Room m624 (6TH floor, Medical Science Building - the Dragstedt Conference Room) - directions below. Attendance is strongly recommended for anyone interested in the program. Refreshments will be served.

Applications will be due by 5 p.m. on Friday, December 18, 2015. Interviews will be scheduled in January, 2015. Final details about the application packet and funding amounts will be posted soon.

One or two new KL2 Scholar(s) will be named with an anticipated start date in February, 2016.

For more information, contact:
Thomas A. Pearson, MD, PhD, Director, KL2 program, 352-733-1800, tapearson@ufl.edu

Best Practices in Research Data Management
Tuesday, November 10, noon-1pm, Communicore Building Room C2-41C
Learn practical strategies for best managing your research data. A number of U.S. funding agencies such as the National Science Foundation and the National Institutes of Health require researchers to supply plans for managing research data, called Data Management Plans (DMP), for all new grant proposals. This workshop will provide an overview of the questions to consider when creating a data management plan, with a focus on the DMPTool and tools for sharing your data at the University of Florida (e.g. subject-specific repositories). Topics include metadata and annotation, file formats and organization, storage, backups and security, and data sharing. The workshop is geared toward graduate students, faculty, and researchers.

EndNote
Wednesday, November 11, 9am-10am, C2-003
Wednesday, December 9, noon-1pm, C2-003
EndNote is a program designed to help you organize your reference citations. Learn how to create and navigate the EndNote libraries, enter individual citations, and search/retrieve citations from EndNote, as well as how to download citations from PubMed, library catalogs, other databases, and import them into your library. We will learn how to use the 'Cite While You Write' toolbar and different ways of inserting citations into your papers for publication. EndNote makes it easy to generate a bibliography according to the style of any particular journal. This class focuses on the desktop version of EndNote and addresses some unique features of EndNote Online.

Evidence-Based and Gray Literature Sources and Search Tips

Wednesday, November 18, noon-1pm, Communicore Building Room C2-003

Quick "bus tour" of several evidence-based literature and gray literature databases. Tips on how and where to find EBM in PubMed,other health profession-specific evidence databases (as enrollment dictates), the Cochrane databases and clinical trials databases. With systematic reviews including grey literature to balance publication bias of peer-reviewed journal articles, the class will also familiarize you with searching several sources of grey literature: the New York Academy of Medicine Grey Lit Reports, WorldCat and ProQuest Dissertations databases, and Web of Science for proceedings and conference papers that can be followed up in Google Scholar or faculty webpages.

Introduction to CINAHL

Thursday, November 5, 9am-10am, C2-003

An introduction to the premier database of nursing and allied health literature: basic and advanced search options; performing more accurate searches using CINAHL headings; using limits to narrow and refine your search; printing, emailing, and exporting your citations; creating a personal account to store your citations; and finding full-text articles.

Medical Terminology

Part 1: Thursday, November 5, 1-3pm, Communicore Building Room C2-41A

Part 2: Thursday, November 12, 1-3pm, Communicore Building Room C2-41A

Part 3: Thursday, November 19, 1-3pm, Communicore Building Room C2-41A

Basics of medical terminology. Key concepts and word building, as well as the basics of body structure, including cells, tissues, organs and body planes will be covered. Parts 1, 2 and 3 make up a single 6-hour course. Attendees should plan to attend all three sessions in order to complete the training.

This workshop is currently full, but you may still register and be put on the waiting list.

PubMed

Wednesday, November 4, noon-1pm, C2-003

This class will take you step-by-step through effective literature search and save techniques-starting smartly, limiting efficiently without losing "good stuff", searching for specific info (authors, types of publications, specific journals) and refining your search. Depending on participant interests/needs and time, we may also cover setting up email alerts, transferring to bibliographic software like RefWorks or EndNote, filtering for evidence-based studies, building collections within PubMed or other functions within PubMed.

RefWorks

Thursday, November 19, 1pm-2pm, C2-003

RefWorks is a free web-based program designed to help you organize your reference citations. You will learn how to create folders and navigate RefWorks; enter individual citations; and search/retrieve citations from RefWorks, as well as how to download citations from PubMed and other databases, and import them into your library. We will learn how to use the "Write n Cite" feature and the webpage citing feature "Ref Grab It". It's easy to generate a bibliography according a variety of styles!
